

Asia liquidity run

How to trade the Asian session liquidity run effectively & consistently

3-step process

The Asian session liquidity run method follows a daily 3-step process throughout the pre-London & early London trading session. The daily trading process is as follows:

Step 1

Wait for a sweep of the high or low of the Asian session range

Step 2

Wait for price structure to reverse back into the Asian session range

Step 3

Sell/buy into a clear reversal when price has turned around and traded back into the Asian session range

Once you are in a position you should target the opposite side of the Asian range for profit taking. Trail your stops to breakeven & beyond to increase win rates.

Remember Asia run trades don't form every single day but if you repeat the process daily your results will be positive at the end of each week/month